38th Biennial Conference by Jimmy and Veronda Harrison

WVAD hosted its 38th Biennial Conference at Ramada Inn Downtown in Charleston, WV. Our theme for the conference was "Together We Can Lead." Eighty-three people attended.

During the weekend, we had two exciting workshops and 15 exhibitors to show their products and services. Our presenters were Tammy Ennis, who presented on "Do I Know My Rights?" and Chris Hedges, Matt Stonestreet, and Derrick Walker, all from the State Attorney General Office, presented on "How to Protect Yourself from Scamming and Identity Theft?" Both were very good and informative.

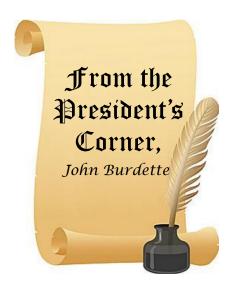

Friday evening, the attendees enjoyed WVAD Feud, Dingo, and mime presented by Bill Carwile. Saturday evening, we had a banquet with awards and more entertainment by Bill Carwile, who performed mime. Certificates of Appreciation were presented to West Virginia Relay, West Virginia Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, Sorenson VRS, and Purple Communication for being conference sponsors. Certificate of Recognition was presented to Missy Barie for her volunteering, organizing, and planning the Susan G. Komen Race for Cure. Jimmy and Veronda Harrison both received a Certificate of Appreciation for all their hard and unselfish work for preparing for this conference. The Meritorious Award was presented to Marissa Sanders for all her help and advice. The President's Award was presented to Liz Leisure. Liz then recognized and thanked John Burdette, Marissa Sanders, Donna Williams, Jimmy and Veronda Harrison for their support and help. We (See 38th Biennial ... on page 3)

Greetings WVAD Members and Friends,

Hopefully your summer is treating you well! Summer is almost over and fall season will be here soon. Fall is my favorite time of the year...bringing cooler weather, beautiful colors, watching football, and hunting.

Congratulations to the new and continuing officers for the 2011-2013 Executive Board. I am excited and honored for the opportunity to serve WVAD as President for the fourth time. I want to thank the board/co-chairperson for doing a wonderful job with 38th Biennial Conference. It is time for all of us to roll up our sleeves and get busy.

We, the Board, want to continue strengthening WVAD by increasing the number of members, recruiting young people, and educating everyone about our rights as deaf individuals and new laws affecting us that are happening in WV. As Tammy Ennis said in her presentation, we need to learn how to advocate and empower ourselves. We also need to work on fundraising projects to raise funds for WVAD's 100th Anniversary in 2015 and the NAD conference. Four years to the 100th Anniversary will go by fast!

There are two big important projects happening in West Virginia:

The state rule (WV CSR 192-13) that was passed in 2009 requires that anyone who works as an interpreter in West Virginia must be certified and be on the WV Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (WVCDHH) list by January 1, 2013. The WVCDHH Interpreter Task Force is currently working on WV Registry of Interpreters and Transliterators (WVRIT) and hope to share more information about it before January 2012.

WVAD and WVCDHH are partnering to work together on Smoke Alarms Program available to deaf and hard of hearing West Virginians who cannot afford to purchase them. We hope to have this distribution program going within the next year.

WVAD would love to collect articles from across the state. If you have any news, events, announcements, or anything that you wish to share in the newsletter, this will let you know what's

Daylight Savings Time

Starting in 2007, daylight time begins in the United States on the second Sunday in March and ends on the first Sunday in November. On the second Sunday in March, clocks are set ahead one hour at 2:00 a.m. local standard time, which becomes 3:00 a.m. local daylight time. On the first Sunday in November, clocks are set back one hour at 2:00 a.m. local daylight time, which becomes 1:00 a.m. local standard time. These dates were established by Congress in the Energy Policy Act of 2005, Pub. L. no. 109-58, 119 Stat 594 (2005).

Not all places in the U.S. observe daylight time. In particular, Hawaii and most of Arizona do not use it. Indiana adopted its use beginning in 2006.

^{*} New law went into effect.

Many countries observe some form of "summer time" and the dates when the changes are made are various and not determined by any international agreements.

Daylight time and time zones in the U.S. are defined in the U.S. Code, Title 15, Chapter 6, Subchapter IX - Standard Time.

History of Daylight Time in the U.S.

Although standad time in time zones was instituted in the U.S. and Canada by the railroads in 1883, it was not established in U.S. law until the Act of March 19, 1918, sometimes called the Standard Time Act. The act also established daylight saving time, a contentious idea then. Daylight saving time was repealed in 1919, but standard time in time zones remained in law. Daylight time became a local matter. It was re-established nationally early in World War II, and was continuously observed from February 9, 1942 to September 30, 1945. After the war its use varied among states and localities. The Uniform Time Act of 1966 provided standardization in the dates of beginning and end of daylight time in the U.S. but allowed for local exemptions from its observance. The act provided that daylight time begin on the last Sunday in April and end on the last Sunday in October, with the changeover to occur at 2:00 a.m. local time.

During the "energy crisis" years, Congress enacted earlier starting dates for daylight time. In 1974, daylight time began on January 6 and in 1975 it began on February 23. After those two years the starting date reverted back to the last Sunday in April. In 1986, a law was passed that shifted the starting date of daylight time to the first Sunday in April, beginning in 1987. The ending date of daylight time was not subject to such changes, and remained the last Sunday in October. The Energy Policy Act of 2005 changed both the starting and ending dates. Beginning in 2007, daylight time starts on the second Sunday in March and ends on the first Sunday in November.

For a very readable account of the history of standard and daylight time in the U.S., see Ian R. Bartky and Elizabeth Harrison: "Standard and Daylightsaving Time," Scientific American, May 1979 (Vol. 240, No. 5), pp. 46-53.

Preparing to Bring Your Workout Indoors

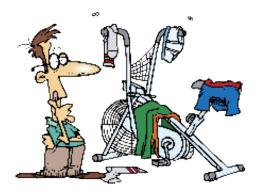

Autumn is just around the corner. Soon, you will be indoors due to the changing weather. You can still have a great workout, though. Surprisingly, this is the best time to workout. It's not 85 and sunny. There is no grass to cut, no baseball practice, no garden to tend, and no golf to play. The holidays will be here before long, and we all want to look and feel our best. So...exercise!

Now is a great time to work on your pace if you are a runner. The treadmill is great for pace work. Set your speed and go.

Remember, two 15-minute sessions provide the same benefits as one 30-minute session.

If you're a cyclist, try spinning. You can get a great workout without leaving the building.

Maybe even consider yoga for some stress reduction. ■

New FCC Rules on Toll Free Numbers

(Relay Consumer Alert by NADvlogs, Submitted by Admin on Wed, 08/10/2011 - 18:05: http://www.nad.org/news/2011/8/relay-consumer-alert-new-fcc-rules-toll-free-numbers)

The National Association of the Deaf (NAD) is pleased to announce that on August 4, 2011, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) released its final rules on the use of toll free (800 or 866 numbers). The order stops the assignment of new toll-free numbers to Video Relay Service (VRS) users and requires the transition to local ten-digit numbers. If a VRS user wishes to obtain a toll free number or continue using his/her toll free number, he/she must pay separately for the toll free number. Telephone users use local ten-digit numbers and can pay separately for toll free numbers. This order will not affect the deaf and hard of hearing consumer's ability to make calls to toll free numbers.

The FCC also adopted a one-year transition period where previously assigned toll free numbers will continue to work until August 3, 2012. If you use a toll free number, you need to start using your local ten-digit number and let your family, friends, and colleagues know to contact you at your local tendigit number. Your toll free number will no longer work after August 4, 2012 unless you make arrangements to pay for it separately. Both providers and the FCC will do outreach on this issue to consumers.

We applaud the FCC for its hard work and making this important step towards the goal of functional equivalency for all deaf and hard of hearing people.

Deaf Student's Request for Interpreter Denied

(http://www.wsaz.com/mobi?storyid=127972363)

Interpreter Request Denied

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (WSAZ) -- In just two days, students in Kanawha County will head back to school, but one student still isn't sure which school she'll be attending or if she'll be going at all.

Ariel Depp, 16, is deaf, but that doesn't keep her from wanting the same things as every other high school student.

"I can't play basketball, I can't be on the band team, I can't be on the student council, or anything like that because we don't have a car," Ariel said. "We're too poor to afford one."

The services Ariel needs are only provided at Capital High School, but her commute is a four-hour ordeal -- two hours on a bus to school and two hours back. That wouldn't be the case if she could attend a different school.

Ariel Depp voicing her needs at Capital High School, Charleston, WV.

(In the News from page 8)

Geographically, the only thing standing between Ariel and South Charleston High School is a baseball field, but the Kanawha County Board of Education says distance isn't the issue.

"It would be virtually impossible to provide every service for every need in every school. It just can't happen," Superintendent Ronald Duerring said.

Duerring says there are more than 5,000 special education students in the county. Therefore, special programs have to be clustered into a select few schools.

The board refused Ariel's request for an interpreter at South Charleston High because there aren't enough of them to spread throughout the county. That leaves her and her parents in a tough situation.

"We will not let Ariel go back to Capital High School because of the issues with the bullying and the transportation problems," her father Paul Depp said.

"I failed two classes in the last two years of my freshman and sophomore year because I couldn't go to after school tutoring," Ariel said.

Duerring says in order for Ariel to attend South Charleston High, her parents would have to request that no special services be provided.

Her parents say if it doesn't get worked out by Friday when school starts, she will not be going to school.

If she doesn't show up to school for a long period of time, the Board of Education would be forced to send a social worker to her home to investigate. ■

$Fast\ Facts\ About\ Gallaudet\ University\ ({\tt http://www.gallaudet.edu/About_Gallaudet/Fast_Facts.html})$

Location

Gallaudet University is located on 800 Florida Avenue, NE, Washington, DC.

Founded

Gallaudet University, the world's only university in which all programs and services are specifically designed to accommodate deaf and hard of hearing students, was founded in 1864 by an Act of Congress, and its charter was signed by President Abraham Lincoln.

Programs

Deaf and hard of hearing undergraduate students can choose from 39 majors leading to a bachelor of arts or a bachelor of science degree. The University also admits a small number of hearing, degree-seeking undergraduate students--up to 5 percent of an entering class. Undergraduate students also have the option of designing their own majors, called "self-directed majors," in which they select classes from a variety of departments at Gallaudet or take courses offered at 13 other institutions of higher learning that are members of the Consortium of Universities of the Washington Metropolitan Area.

Graduate programs, open to deaf, hard of hearing, and hearing students, include a master of arts or a master of science degree, specialist degree, certificates, and doctoral degrees in a variety of fields involving professional service provision to deaf and hard of hearing people.

Gallaudet University offers exemplary educational programs to deaf and hard of hearing students at all learning levels. The Kendall Demonstration Elementary School (KDES) serves infants and their parents and continues service through the eighth grade. The Model Secondary School for the Deaf (MSSD) offers programs for students in grades nine through 12. Both of these schools are part of the Laurent Clerc National Deaf Education Center, which has a federal mandate to develop and disseminate innovative curriculum, materials, and teaching strategies to schools and programs nationwide.

Enrollment

In the fall of 2010, 1,793 students were enrolled: 1,100 undergraduates, 433 graduates, 201 professional studies students, and 59 English Language Institute students. International students comprise six percent of the degree-seeking student body. Fall 2010 enrollment at the demonstration schools was 99 students at KDES and 140 at MSSD. Thus a total of 2,032 students were enrolled.

Employees

The University and its Clerc Center have 909 employees, 435 of whom are deaf or hard of hearing. A total of 234 employees are faculty members or teachers.

Fundraising

Gallaudet welcomes tax-deductible contributions from individuals, businesses, foundations, and organizations in support of University initiatives and priorities, including scholarships, program enhancements and development, and renovation projects. Please visit the Development Office website for more information about philanthropic support for Gallaudet, including opportunities to make a gift in memory or in honor of a loved one. More about fundraising at Gallaudet.

Community Impact

Gallaudet is one of the area's largest businesses, with direct salaries, wages, and benefits totaling $113.5 million in FY 2010. The University spent another $54.3 million on goods and services and $9.5 million on capital improvements. Since 1992, Gallaudet has constructed five buildings and renovated others. In 2003, the District of Columbia's Zoning Commission approved Gallaudet's Facilities Master Plan, the University's vision for campus development for 2002 to 2012.
